The first of June is an important and exciting day for all at MiTek Vietnam but in particular our MiTek Kids.

We were so pleased to take time out to celebrate this special day on the mini soccer field in front of Office 1. More than 100 parents and over 120 of our MiTek Vietnam children participated.

A lot of exciting activities were prepared for our little angels including kid games, entertainment, circus, music performances, food & drinks.

We hope that families had wonderful time and created lovely memories.

I'M THAI NGUYEN

from Client Liaison and Employee Experience (CLEX) team.

First, thanks for giving me the honor of sharing my MiTek story.

If someone asks me "What made you decide to stick with the job?" The answers are my comments about how much I appreciate my current job and the MiTek Vietnam house.

My MiTek story starts with the dynamic, vibrant, and creative MiTek working environment of young people that I see very clearly in the activities, events, and company trips that my CLEX team and I organize. I am pleased with the attention of the Company to the benefits, rewards, skills development needs, and entertainment for employees.

I enjoy working here for many reasons - the uniform T-shirts which are absolutely beautiful and comfortable to wear to work every day, the delicious and nutritious lunches, and the quality and rewarding trips. The joy from my work is the next thing I want to talk about. I always remember my manager saying, "Nothing is difficult; as long as you work hard to learn, everything will support you." "Take care of your customers and employees like your own children." I am happy to see the joy of employees when they are granted visas and when they return from overseas training trips with many interesting experiences and useful knowledge. In addition, the satisfaction after each event and trip is a great pleasure for my CLEX team in general and for me in particular. This helps me tell myself to constantly try to develop and learn to always complete my tasks well and bring joy to others.

The last thing that I really want to mention is the companionship, cooperation, support, and love from the members of my CLEX team. I am very proud to have a talented manager who is responsible, solves situations, and is always ready to teach and support us. In addition, I want to thank my lovely and kind colleagues, who always support each other in every event, trip, and fun activity out of work. I'm happy to let you know that my team consists of the same number of men and women, as well as the convergence of all five elements. I don't mean to talk about spirituality here, but for me it is a symbol of the full convergence of mutuality, support, and a strong and lasting team.

I love my team! That's all the love in my MiTek story, and it is what made me choose to remain here for a long time. How about you?

Thank you for reading my story. I wish you all the best in MiTek and in life. Let's contribute together to make our MiTek house grow stronger and more sustainable. Thank you!

#Junehabit:

HOW TO REMEMBER VOCABULARY WORDS LONG TERM?

As a language learner, you work hard to expand your vocabulary. You plough through new words every day, make long lists of words and practise with flashcards. However, when it comes to speaking, the new words seem to fall out of your head, so you resort to your old friends – words you already know and have used many times – again and again. Remembering and using new words in speech is often a challenge for language learners. Here are some strategies to help you make words stick in your mind and use them in conversation.

- Learn in chunks and scripts

We retain words better when we learn them in small 'chunks' (i.e. small phrases that combine several words) and 'scripts' (i.e. typical dialogues). For example, instead of memorising the phrasal verb 'to come up with', memorise it as part of the phrase 'to come up with an idea'.

- Visualise what the word or phrase looks like

Drawing what the word means, either on paper or in your imagination, will help you recall the meaning of the word whenever you hear it. This method works well with idioms, such as 'to keep one's mouth shut' (informal), meaning, 'to not talk about something'.

 Tip: In addition to the image of the word, look at word associations in the visual dictionary and thesaurus Visuwords.

- Create mnemonics

Try to create a funny phrase or story that will strengthen the connection between the word and its meaning (known as a mnemonic). I find this technique especially effective when I need to recall words that are hard to spell.

*Here are a few mnemonics created by my students:

'career' – car and beer

'island' – is land

'to lose' – uh-oh, I've lost an 'o'

 Tip: There are a lot of mnemonics available online, such as the 'mems' created by users in Memrise, but you will have a better chance of remembering the word if you invent your own.
